My Amazing Caroline -

Bonjour! That, along with 'meux' and 'Groseilles' - the French word for ~~granate~~
pomegranate - is all the French I know.

I hope you're having fun ~~to~~ working behind the scenes. Your skills will be useful to Dramalab next year.

Paris is big, and bright, and beautiful.
You'd love it here. All of the buildings date
from the eighteenth century, before the French Revolution. There are ~~several~~ ^{several} sidewalk cafes and brasseries.

We walked along the Seine tonight. Lots of bright lights and couples. We're going to Versailles tomorrow.

Sofia ☺

P.S. I should probably not write in pen.
