

Sewanee: The University of the South

Breslin Tower, constructed in 1886 through a gift from Thomas & Elizabeth Breslin, is an outstanding example of Victorian Gothic architecture, inspired by the Magdalen College tower at Oxford. It houses a Seth Thomas clock & Westminster Chimes.

Dear Caroline,

I'm sorry to hear that you're super stressed & lacking free time! That's a huge load of obligations, but I know you'll crush them. I'll send a private jet to take you to Iceland ASAP, don't worry. If you ever need a distraction from the chaos, I'm always more than happy to talk.

As for myself, I can't say I'm quite as busy as you (but still pretty busy). Four classes, almost all of which are Econ/finance, ~~and~~ w/ the exception of Spanish. Now that I'm well out of intro courses, the content is much more challenging & intensive, which is good (more exciting). We're about to start looking into internship apps for next Spring Semester, but as of now we aren't burdened w/ that stress. As the new president of the Entrepreneurship & Social Innovation Club we've had one startup meeting, & one more this coming Thursday.

I've been spending a larger proportion of what free time I have (I spend a lot of my weekend nights working, driving Backus) reading & walking (mainly in the woods). I recently finished a book on ISIS & now I'm on a Cormac McCarthy novel.

Life is good, but, as always, I miss our friends from home. Wouldn't mind an extended trip down the Natchez! Stay in touch, & hang in there.

Best,

Cole

Caroline Scheving
MSC 126253
Emory University
605 Asbury Circle
Atlanta, GA 30322

